Taking the Census.

The Work Begun All Over the United States.

EARLY RETURNS EXPECTED.

Forty-Three Thousand Men Engaged as Enumerators, Besides Several Thousand Clerks in Washington Filing Returns. Other Washington News.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The machinery for taking the census for 1890 will be put in motion to-day all over the United States, and as it will be pushed as expeditiously as possible, Superintendent Porter anticipates early returns to his office that the work of tabulating can be entered upon and completed within a reasonable period. All the preliminary matters have been arranged, blanks prepared, enumerators instructed as to their duties, and all that remains to be done is to collect data which it has been decided shall become a part of the census.

It requires 43,000 men as enumerators to gather the requisite information, and each of these is either employed in a definite locality or upon some special topic. This, however, does not include the additional thousands of clerks employed in collecting and tabulating the returns made that will come back from all over the country as the result of the labors of the enumerators, so it can be seen at a glance what a corps of men it requires and immense sum of money must be expended to accomplish this undertaking.

Mr. Porter has accepted and confirmed the supervisor's selection of enumerators, except in a few instances where the fitness of the appointees was questioned, and it being shown that they were incompetent others were substituted in the south in some places, objection was made to the appointment of colored men, but the supervisors being held responsible for their men he declined to interfere upon that ground. It is known, however, that appointments of this kind are few, and even in the case of a colored supervisor nearly all of the enumerators designated by him are white men.

It is not anticipated that much trouble will be experienced in obtaining answers to questions that are to be propounded but where refusals are met with they will at once be reported and steps taken to enforce the law. The superintendent is not given any discretion in the matter but it is made obligatory upon him to report each and every person who fails to comply with the requirements of the law to proper persons who will institute a vigorous prosecution of the violators.

It is thought that some trouble will be experienced in securing answer to the inquiries regarding mortgages as well as those concerning special information in relation to disease, about which physicians have recently given opinions and declined to furnish it. No exceptions will be made in propounding the questions, or harsh measures resorted to in enforcing the law, but where it becomes plain that the provisions of the law are intentionally being violated then the parties so offending will be called upon to take the consequences.

Superintendent Porter yesterday, in response to telegraphic inquiries, heard from more than a hundred of the census supervisors in various parts of the country, saying that everything was in readiness to begin the work to-day. He has no doubt but what all are ready, and that the work will begin in each and all of the 175 districts without a hitch or obstacle.

Assistant Chief Clerk Wardle, of his office, has gone to New York city to watch the beginning of operations there and in Brooklyn, where the population census will disclose more than 2,000,000 people.

Program of Congress.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The senate to-day will resume the suspended silver debate. Senators Pugh, Aldrich and Sherman are booked for long speeches, and as a great many other senators desire to be heard, no limit to the debate can be fixed. It is likely to be suspended once or twice during the week to permit the discussion of bills from the committee on appropriations.

In the house the silver bill agreed upon by the Republican caucus of the house will be dissected during the week in committee of the whole. The bill will be called up probably on Wednesday, and the rest of the week will be consumed in debating it. It cannot be definitely stated that the bill will be acted upon before the end of the week. Monday in the house will be general suspension day, and a few general and a large number of local measures will be placed on their passage under suspension of the rules.

Tuesday has been set apart for the consideration of the contested election case of McDuffie, Republican, against Turpin, Democrat, from Alabama. The Republican majority of the election committee has declared in favor of seating McDuffie and there is no doubt that will be done.

SAVED TEN LIVES.

An Ex-Convict's Heroic Effort to Save a Boy from Drowning.

NEW YORK, June 2.—David Barrett, a young ex-convict, was standing on Pier 37, East river, yesterday, almost ready to jump into the river and end his life because he could not get work and he would not go back to his old thievish life, for he remembered the words of his mother, who recently died, and with her last breath begged him to live an honest life. While Barrett was musing he saw little 8-year-old Charles O'Connor, who, with other boys, was fishing on the pier, fell into the water.

Barrett jumped after the boy, who was in a dangerous place, between a canal boat and the pier. He was being sucked under the boat by the current when Barrett reached him. Barrett caught the boy's clothing with his teeth and swam with him to the end of the dock where they were rescued. Both were taken to Gouverneur hospital. Barrett told the story of his life and how he had tried to live right since his mother died. He said he had made up his mind to starve rather than steal. He learned the iron moulder's trade while serving ten years' sentence in prison, but no one would employ him. People who know the young man say that he has rescued ten persons from drowning.

Crane had been paying attention to Mrs. Perry for some time, and on Thursday she forbade him to come to her house any more. On Friday he got drunk and went to Mrs. Perry's house and tried to get into the place, but Mrs. Perry saw him coming and locked the door. He kicked on the door for sometime and at last she opened it and ordered him off the premises when he pulled a pistol and shot her. She lived until 2:30 a. m. Saturday. Crane was arrested and taken to Bath to await the action of the grand jury.

About 3 o'clock the rainfall gave place to a fierce hail storm that lasted probably eight or ten minutes.
